Summary of the Course

The Sydney Opera House is one of the world's most distinctive and instantly recognisable buildings. You will have seen it on postcards, tourist brochures, television shows, films, souvenirs, art works and there is even a kit that allows you to build your very own version of it out of LEGO. Whether this is your first time in Sydney or you have lived here all your life, this course gives you the opportunity to look at this iconic building from a range of different perspectives in order to understand and appreciate it anew. Through a series of self-paced walking tours, you will see and experience the Opera House through multiple 'lenses'. In response, you will develop critical reflective responses to these experiences and, in the process, learn something new about yourself and your learning.

Course Learning Outcomes

1. Describe different aspects of the Sydney Opera House informed by a range of disciplinary perspectives.
2. Critically reflect on developing knowledge acquired through experiential learning.
3. Describe a personal learning strategy to apply in future learning.

Teaching Strategies

This course is designed to help you develop your understanding of yourself as a learner and, in so doing, help you to learn about the process of learning itself. It gives you skills in the use of critical reflection to support and enable your meta-cognition. It uses experiential learning which provides you with the opportunity to apply critical analysis at the same time as you are using your initiative in an immersive experience.

The structure of the course guides you as you visit and then revisit, on multiple occasions, the same place: the Sydney Opera House. It is a building that is both immediately and easily recognisable (i.e. it is something that everyone always already 'knows') but also something that is both richly complex and inherently contradictory.

Assessment

You will have access to a private blog that you can use as a learning journal. You will receive formative feedback on at least one private learning journal entry to support the development of your reflective writing skills.

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories:

Copying: using the same or very similar words to the original text or idea without acknowledging the source or using quotation marks. This also applies to images, art and design projects, as well as presentations where someone presents another's ideas or words without credit.

Inappropriate paraphrasing: Changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original structure and/or progression of ideas of the original, and information without acknowledgement. This also applies in presentations where someone paraphrases another's ideas or words without credit and to piecing together quotes and paraphrases into a new whole, without appropriate referencing.

Collusion: working with others but passing off the work as a person's individual work. Collusion also includes providing your work to another student before the due date, or for the purpose of them plagiarising at any time, paying another person to perform an academic task, stealing or acquiring another person's academic work and copying it, offering to complete another person's work or seeking payment for completing academic work.

Inappropriate citation: Citing sources which have not been read, without acknowledging the "secondary" source from which knowledge of them has been obtained.

Duplication ("self-plagiarism"): submitting your own work, in whole or in part, where it has previously been prepared or submitted for another assessment or course at UNSW or another university.

Correct referencing practices:

- Paraphrasing, summarising, essay writing and time management
- Appropriate use of and attribution for a range of materials including text, images, formulae and concepts.

Individual assistance is available on request from The Learning Centre (<http://www.lc.unsw.edu.au/>). Students are also reminded that careful time management is an important part of study and one of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, drafting and proper referencing of sources in preparing all assessment items.

UNSW Library also has the ELISE tool available to assist you with your study at UNSW. ELISE is designed to introduce new students to studying at UNSW but it can also be a great refresher during your study.

Completing the ELISE tutorial and quiz will enable you to:

- analyse topics, plan responses and organise research for academic writing and other assessment tasks
- effectively and efficiently find appropriate information sources and evaluate relevance to your needs
- use and manage information effectively to accomplish a specific purpose
- better manage your time

- understand your rights and responsibilities as a student at UNSW
- be aware of plagiarism, copyright, UNSW Student Code of Conduct and Acceptable Use of UNSW ICT Resources Policy
- be aware of the standards of behaviour expected of everyone in the UNSW community
- locate services and information about UNSW and UNSW Library

Some of these areas will be familiar to you, others will be new. Gaining a solid understanding of all the related aspects of ELISE will help you make the most of your studies at UNSW.
