Summary of the Course

Subject Area: Music Performance, Music Composition, Music Ensemble

MUSC3706 Performance Laboratory C (Music Creative Practice & Music Pedagogy) is the third Performance Laboratory course for students enrolled in the Music Creative Practice and Music Pedagogy streams of the Bachelor of Music program. It consolidates the milestones achieved in earlier Performance Laboratory courses, further developing the student's technical, creative and interpretive skills. The course also builds on students' awareness of a range of musical genres and practices encountered in other courses in the music program. Students learn to apply critical listening and readings of performance literature and gain further skills and experience in the development of ensemble performances.

Note: This is a 12 UOC course. You will enrol in 4 UOC in each of three successive terms with a result reported by a single grade at the end of the third 4 UOC course.

Course Learning Outcomes

1. Apply criticism and analysis of the literature on performance, and of master class presentations, to the preparation of their own performance
2. Formulate artistic objectives and realise them in a range of styles in performance or composition
3. Apply principles of teamwork to music ensemble

Teaching Strategies

Students' advanced expertise in performance or composition will be enhanced through 1-1 consultations with specialist tutors [Tutorial 8 x 1 hour each trimester]. In workshops [Laboratory 9 x 1.5 hours each trimester], instrumental and vocal students will consolidate performance experience, while composition students will critically engage with issues informing professional performance and performance preparation. Workshop settings will also support engagement with issues concerning creative collaboration. Students will attend masterclasses led by visiting experts in a range of musical instruments, voices and styles, encouraging students to draw creative links with their personal studies [Lecture choosing 4 x 2 hours from nine masterclasses across the year]. All students will contribute to directed ensembles, choosing from a wide range of musical styles and cultures [Studio 8 x 2 hours each trimester]. In the T2 workshops [Laboratory], students will receive practical training in ensemble coordination, conducting and entrepreneurship from an expert in this field.

Individually or in small groups, students will perform works or excerpts of works, studied and performed during the trimester. Where appropriate, excerpts will be selected by the part-checking examiner.

This will be the final assessment task for performers. For composition students, portfolios will be submitted in T3. Portfolios may include any number of works, but the total duration of works should be 15-20 minutes. Course Evaluation and Development

Feedback on the course will be made through the myExperience Questionnaire. This is a new course. Its content and teaching methods have been shaped partly in response to evaluation of earlier Performance Laboratory Courses at this level. Changes include a smaller class size, enhanced in-class performance opportunities, the planning of informational lectures involving performance issues, a strengthened conducting component, and the retirement of the Listening Test. In addition, I have developed a more discursive approach to managing student goals and feedback.

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories:

Copying: using the same or very similar words to the original text or idea without acknowledging the source or using quotation marks. This also applies to images, art and design projects, as well as presentations where someone presents another's ideas or words without credit.

Inappropriate paraphrasing: Changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original structure and/or progression of ideas of the original, and information without acknowledgement. This also applies in presentations where someone paraphrases another's ideas or words without credit and to piecing together quotes and paraphrases into a new whole, without appropriate referencing.

Collusion: working with others but passing off the work as a person's individual work. Collusion also includes providing your work to another student before the due date, or for the purpose of them plagiarising at any time, paying another person to perform an academic task, stealing or acquiring another person's academic work and copying it, offering to complete another person's work or seeking payment for completing academic work.

Inappropriate citation: Citing sources which have not been read, without acknowledging the "secondary" source from which knowledge of them has been obtained.

Duplication ("self-plagiarism"): submitting your own work, in whole or in part, where it has previously been prepared or submitted for another assessment or course at UNSW or another university.

Correct referencing practices:

- Paraphrasing, summarising, essay writing and time management
- Appropriate use of and attribution for a range of materials including text, images, formulae and concepts.

Individual assistance is available on request from The Learning Centre (<http://www.lc.unsw.edu.au/>). Students are also reminded that careful time management is an important part of study and one of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, drafting and proper referencing of sources in preparing all assessment items.

UNSW Library also has the ELISE tool available to assist you with your study at UNSW. ELISE is designed to introduce new students to studying at UNSW but it can also be a great refresher during your study.

Completing the ELISE tutorial and quiz will enable you to:

- analyse topics, plan responses and organise research for academic writing and other assessment tasks
- effectively and efficiently find appropriate information sources and evaluate relevance to your needs
- use and manage information effectively to accomplish a specific purpose
- better manage your time

- understand your rights and responsibilities as a student at UNSW
- be aware of plagiarism, copyright, UNSW Student Code of Conduct and Acceptable Use of UNSW ICT Resources Policy
- be aware of the standards of behaviour expected of everyone in the UNSW community
- locate services and information about UNSW and UNSW Library

Some of these areas will be familiar to you, others will be new. Gaining a solid understanding of all the related aspects of ELISE will help you make the most of your studies at UNSW.
